ASK EVERY BRANCH OF CANADIAN LEGION TO SUPPORT LEAGUE

Would Make Society Effective Instrument for Peace in Canada—Thirty-Five Other National Organizations Recommended to Take Similar Course—Peace Action Week

OTTAWA, Aug. 31.—To help build the League of Nations Society into an effective instrument for peace action in Canada, all of the 1,180 branches of the Canadian Legion are being urged to become members and lend their support, Brigadier-General Alexander Ross, of Yorkton, Sask., Dominion president, announced at the organization meeting here today of the steering committee of the society's council of national participating organizations.

The steering committee unanimously adopted a recommendation that the thirty-five other national participating organizations take similar action.

GENERAL ROSS ELECTED
General Ross was elected chairman of the committee for the year. Organizations which are members of the steering committee in addition to the Canadian Legion are the Canadian Teachers' Federation, the Council for Social Service of the Church of England in Canada, the National Council of Women and the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

It was decided to recommend to the national executive committee of the society that the week of November 8 (Armistice Week) be set aside as peace action week, and that with the co-operation of all interested member national organizations, the society prepare suggestions for observance of the week to be circulated throughout Canada. These would include proposals for Armistice Day and assistance to war veterans.

Minister of Education Discusses Curriculum With Library Association

HARRISON, B.C., Aug. 31.—School boards are discovering that books are necessary for learning, Hon. G. M. Weir, Minister of Education, told the British Columbia Library Association convention here today.

"The new high school curriculum has been blamed for almost everything, especially for increasing the load on libraries," the minister said. "As a matter of fact, libraries are needed as much more than the old curriculum, but many people don't realize it."

As delegates rose to appeal for financial assistance from the Government and to complain that the new curriculum had placed additional burdens on libraries without increasing their resources, Mr. Weir asked for specific recommendations. "I am entirely in sympathy with you," he said, "but you will have to give me definite principles and arguments."

NO CALL FOR FORMAL ACTION

Sino-Japanese Hostilities
Have in No Way Involved
Dominion

OTTAWA, Aug. 31 (CP)—War between China and Japan has not yet involved the Dominion Government in any formal action, Prime Minister Mackenzie King stated tonight in reply to a question. His government had "not been asked for any opinion by the British Government prior to that government's demands to Japan following the wounding of the British Ambassador to China."

"We will consider that when the occasion arises," Mr. Mackenzie King replied when asked if the Canadian Minister to Japan would be withdrawn in the event the British Ambassador at Tokyo were recalled as a result of the present situation.

DELAYING DEPARTURE
Hon. Randolph Bruce, Canadian Minister to Japan, is now on holiday in Canada. He was to have left for Japan next week, but the Prime Minister said he was advised the minister would delay his departure until a later date, but not because of anything connected with the warfare between Japan and China.

Commenting on criticisms leveled at Mr. Bruce for remarks he was said to have made in commenting upon China's dispute with Japan, the Prime Minister said: "I think what Mr. Bruce was alleged to have said went far beyond anything he did say."

In the afternoon His Honor The Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Hamber will entertain at Government House in honor of the visitors. Other entertainment to be provided here will be quite informal, and members will probably all return on the night boat to Vancouver in order to be present at the resumed technical sessions on Wednesday morning.

THE PROGRAMME
Among the highlights in the Vancouver programme, which will begin with the registration of members at 10 a.m. September 13, are the address by Premier Pattullo at noon that day; the evening programme the same day, when a motion picture furnished by the Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa, will tell members something about the history of gold mining in Canada; the address at midday on Wednesday, September 15, by J. SECOND FILM
BEGINS SOON

Victoria Exhibition Not to Halt Production of "Murder Is News"

The Iron ruling of the stage, "the show must go on," has been applied to motion picture production in this city. Despite the fact that the Victoria Exhibition, starting September 11, makes matters decidedly inconvenient for Central Films, Ltd., it will not be allowed to halt the filming of "Murder Is News," second picture of a series of eight being made by the local company for Columbia Pictures Inc. Work may begin September 7.

Since the Willows studio cannot be used during Fair Week, Kenneth J. Bishop, president of Central Films, has arranged to use the stage of the Royal Victoria Theatre, which will be converted into a studio. Two sets will be erected on it, and torn down as others become necessary.

GALLAUDET IN LEAD
The company will return to the Willows the week after the fair, but will be forced to do most of their work in the evening, due to the fact that they would otherwise be interrupted by the noise from the races.

John Gallaudet, star of "Manhattan Whirlwind," will again play the part of Jerry Tracey in "Murder Is News," while George McKay is again to be featured as the comedian.

The rest of the cast, announced yesterday by Mr. Bishop, is composed of Iris Meredith, who will play opposite Mr. Gallaudet, Doris Lloyd, Colin Kenny, John Spacey and Allan Brook.

ART DIRECTOR HERE
The technical staff which made the last production is remaining here, and is made up of Leon Basha, director; George Rhein, assistant director; George Meenan, cameraman; Bill Beckway, second camera; Herb Eicke, sound man, and Jack Haynes, assistant sound man.

Fred Astholz, Los Angeles, art director attached to the staff of Columbia Pictures, arrived here yesterday and conferred with Mr. Bishop, and Jack Fier, representative of the parent concern here.

Following "Murder Is News," it is understood that Central Films may make an outdoor picture starring the well-known actor, Buck Jones.

made in The Provincial Royal Gazette of the disallowance of three Alberta statutes designed to give the province control of the chartered banks, and the curtail appeals to the courts.

Until that proclamation is made the courts of the land will not have been legally advised of the status of the legislation in question. In the event Lieutenant-Governor Brown of Alberta has not the necessary advice from his ministers to make the proclamation, he can do it through The Canada Gazette at Ottawa with the same weight and authority.

CITES PRECEDENT
A precedent for this was created during the regime of Sir John A. Macdonald, the Prime Minister revealed. A Quebec statute was disallowed but not accepted the Federal Government's decision and refused to advise the lieutenant-governor to make the necessary proclamation.

Law officers of the Crown at that time reached a decision that The Canada Gazette was open to the lieutenant-governor in such a circumstance as if published in the provincial organ of royal authority. The Prime Minister said he was not definitely advised as to whether or not the proclamation was being made in the normal way in Alberta, but explained the procedure that could be adopted if necessary.

DOUGLAS COMES IN
LONDON, Aug. 31 (CP)—Major C. H. Douglas, founder of Social Credit, today approved Premier Aberhart's decision to enforce disallowed Alberta banking legislation, while a letter was made public from the Liverpool Social Credit Association condemning the Canadian Government's action in disallowing the legislation.

Douglas told The Canadian Press that the time was approaching when Social Credit plans might be given a test in Alberta. Previously, he said, differences between theory and practice had been marked, due to the provincial government's lack of power to put Social Credit plans into operation. Now, however, he said, the Alberta Government "has begun to acquire power over its own credit."

Joseph Hope Blames Nineteenth Century Expansionist Policy for Struggle

Pleading for a sympathetic hearing of China's case in the Far Eastern struggle, Joseph Hope, local-born Chinese merchant, addressed a luncheon gathering of the Current Events Club in Spencer's dining room, Monday, on the subject, "Japanese Imperialistic Policy Versus a Chinese United Front."

Mr. Hope declared that the present war in China was solely a result of Japan's "Asia for Asiatics" policy, which China had rejected as being merely concealed Japanese imperialism meaning "Asia for Japan."

"Japan wants to dominate the whole of Asia and has seen that she must strike now while China is not completely united, rather than wait until later, but China is actually much more united than Japan is aware of," he said, in a general explanation of the situation.

"Modern Japanese imperialism is of the old nineteenth century brand that has fallen into international disrepute, and the great powers of today should not and will not permit it to be brazenly practiced," the speaker said.

Following the address there was a one-hour question and discussion period on various implications of the Oriental situation.

W. R. Lewis, one of the leading salesmen in the Portland office of the insurance company, will be a featured speaker on this morning's programme, with an address on "I Had a Talk With Bill Lewis" recounting his experiences in insurance selling. Lewis has a theory that the best time to see busy executives is when they are pressed by business to eliminate useless talk, and to get down to the meat of the discussion which he will relate in his talk.

Altered Curriculum For Public Schools Effective Next Week

Many Changes Made by Provincial Department of Education for Term Opening September 7—Junior High School Details Given

BRITISH Columbia's Department of Education will put in effect its latest scheme for modernization of provincial school curricula when the summer vacation ends on September 7. Thousands of senior high school students will start their year's work under a revised program of studies intended to shift major emphasis from academic learning to more practical courses. The senior school programme will take its place beside those for elementary and junior high schools, put in practice last year.

"In the past, preparation for university graduation has dominated the senior high schools," a statement issued by the Department of Education said. "Although in the larger centres provision has been made for technical and commercial education, in most of the schools only courses leading to matriculation have been available."

The new programme provides many practical courses which could be given in almost any high school, and it is hoped that the schools will abandon their pre-occupation with the senior high school grades. Pupils entering Grade XI or Grade XII, the final year, will complete their courses according to the old programme.

These are some of the changes made in the course of studies: Home work will be restricted to not more than an hour and a half daily in each of the three senior grades. General science courses will replace the former specialized courses in physics, chemistry and biology. Specialized and technical phases of science will be reserved for the university. The general science course will be made adaptable to different conditions through the province by providing optional units in mining, horticulture, farming, lumbering and other subjects.

A course in farm mechanics will replace woodwork and manual training in rural communities.

NEW MATHEMATICS
The courses in mathematics, algebra and geometry, will be reorganized into a new course in practical mathematics, based on mathematics actually used in the industries and commerce of the province.

Foreign language study will be reorganized to lay more emphasis on the ability to read them. Such courses will be three-year courses instead of four years as at present.

A compulsory course in health and physical education will be provided in all grades. Courses in music and art will be introduced. Home economics and technical courses will be recognized as credits for university admission.

One weekly library period will be required in each of the three senior high school grades.

In addition, the Department of Education will shortly complete plans for authorizing certain accredited high schools to graduate students without the necessity for department-set examinations.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL
Central Junior High School, composed of Boys' and Girls' Central Schools, will be ready for occupancy here September 7. The institution has been planned for several years by Victoria School Board and the Provincial Department of Education.

tion, and will mark a major advance in educational instruction for the city. It will house fourteen divisions, with an average of thirty-eight or forty pupils per division.

Enrollment will comprise Grades VII, VIII and IX pupils who formerly attended Central or George Jay Schools, and Grade IX students who plan to take the technical course.

New features in the curriculum will include a daily forty-minute study period and a weekly library session with proper instruction. Study periods will be utilized for homework or to clarify work followed with difficulty in classrooms.

Grade VII subjects will include health; physical training; English, social studies, general science, general mathematics practical arts; music, art, library and study periods. The same subjects will be studied in Grade VIII, with French or a commercial course as variable subjects.

In Grade IX courses to be offered are French and science, French and practical arts, or technical and commercial subjects. Constants will be limited to health and physical training, English, social studies, library and study periods.

Commenting on the scene in London on the eve of the Coronation, he declared the excitement that prevailed at the time gave him an insight into the great respect the English has both for their royalty and their national traditions.

An amusing incident of the trip occurred at Guildford, he said, where he was introduced to the mayor of the town as "the mayor of British Columbia."

B.C. HOUSE IN LONDON
Reeve Taylor paid high tribute to the hospitality offered to tourists from this province at B.C. House, in London. Through the efforts of the acting agent-general, W. A. McAdam, a native of British Columbia, he had received invitations to a royal garden party for 10,000 persons at Buckingham Palace, where he had seen at close quarters members of the British Royal family including Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

Declaring that the English could give Canadians a lesson in their respect of governments, whether municipal or national, the Reeve remarked that this true nationalism of the English was one of their most admirable traits.

REPAY GREAT DEBT
"I have come back a more convinced Britisher and Imperialist than I ever was, and I feel that we Canadians should do more to repay our great debt to Britain so far as matters of imperial defence and British Empire trade are concerned," he concluded.

The speaker was introduced and thanked for his address by Walter M. Walker, president.

During the meeting, Ian R. Malcolm, of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, was introduced and welcomed as a new member.

older Chinese in Victoria are unable to read the English news of the daily papers.

Great interest at present centres around the official attitudes of Great Britain and Russia to the Japanese invasion, following China's appeal to the League of Nations and a statement of General Chiang Kai-shek yesterday that foreign powers should interfere in China, if only for their own safety.

WAR REDEMPTION FUND
Enthusiasm for the Chinese war redemption fund is said to be "exceptionally gratifying" by those conducting the campaign. Approximately $75,000 has already been subscribed locally, which on a per capita basis is considerably higher than the $90,000 so far collected in Vancouver. On Sunday a group of young Chinese went out canvassing among young men under twenty-one, and collected several hundred dollars. One youth is reported to have promised ten dollars, although it will be two weeks before he earns that much.

MRS. W. F. WEST DIES AT DAUGHTER'S HOME
Mrs. F. W. West, a resident of this city for the past nine years, died yesterday at the home of her eldest daughter, Mrs. G. H. Bremner, 182 Joseph Street, following a lingering illness. She was in her eighty-seventh year.

Born in Morristown, N.S., Mrs. West came to Winnipeg in 1883 to join her husband, who had located on what is now Hartford Avenue. West Kilburn, a mark of distinction, which he carried on for thirty-eight years. Coming to the Coast to visit members of her family, she was stricken with partial paralysis, which prevented her return to her home in Manitoba. Mrs. West was of a retiring disposition and greatly beloved by all who knew her.

There also survive two daughters, Mrs. W. B. Brown, Winnipeg, and Mrs. E. N. Fiddell, Seattle; two sons, Lawrence E. West of Davis Point, Man., and R. F. West, Los Angeles; also eight grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren. Her husband predeceased her on August 31, 1930, and her youngest son, Harold, was killed in the Great War in 1915. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

SAYS ENGLAND KEEPS BEAUTY

Reeve R. R. Taylor Tells Kiwanians of Splendor of Old Country Scenery

Despite all her industrialization and dense population, England is still a country of great rural beauty, Reeve R. R. Taylor, of Oak Bay, told members of the Kiwanis Club at a luncheon yesterday in the Empress Hotel. The Reeve recently returned from a trip to the Old Country, where he was present at the Coronation ceremonies.

Reeve Taylor stated that he had not been in England for forty-eight years, and found that he knew nothing about it. He had been most astonished at the amount of arable and park land that was still the most characteristic scenery of the country.

Commenting on the scene in London on the eve of the Coronation, he declared the excitement that prevailed at the time gave him an insight into the great respect the English has both for their royalty and their national traditions.

An amusing incident of the trip occurred at Guildford, he said, where he was introduced to the mayor of the town as "the mayor of British Columbia."

B.C. HOUSE IN LONDON
Reeve Taylor paid high tribute to the hospitality offered to tourists from this province at B.C. House, in London. Through the efforts of the acting agent-general, W. A. McAdam, a native of British Columbia, he had received invitations to a royal garden party for 10,000 persons at Buckingham Palace, where he had seen at close quarters members of the British Royal family including Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

Declaring that the English could give Canadians a lesson in their respect of governments, whether municipal or national, the Reeve remarked that this true nationalism of the English was one of their most admirable traits.

REPAY GREAT DEBT
"I have come back a more convinced Britisher and Imperialist than I ever was, and I feel that we Canadians should do more to repay our great debt to Britain so far as matters of imperial defence and British Empire trade are concerned," he concluded.

The speaker was introduced and thanked for his address by Walter M. Walker, president.

During the meeting, Ian R. Malcolm, of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, was introduced and welcomed as a new member.

LOCAL CHINESE WILL HOLD "FLOWER DAY"

older Chinese in Victoria are unable to read the English news of the daily papers.

Great interest at present centres around the official attitudes of Great Britain and Russia to the Japanese invasion, following China's appeal to the League of Nations and a statement of General Chiang Kai-shek yesterday that foreign powers should interfere in China, if only for their own safety.

WAR REDEMPTION FUND
Enthusiasm for the Chinese war redemption fund is said to be "exceptionally gratifying" by those conducting the campaign. Approximately $75,000 has already been subscribed locally, which on a per capita basis is considerably higher than the $90,000 so far collected in Vancouver. On Sunday a group of young Chinese went out canvassing among young men under twenty-one, and collected several hundred dollars. One youth is reported to have promised ten dollars, although it will be two weeks before he earns that much.

Though diffident about the linking of her name with that of Robert Taylor, she nevertheless admitted that she had recently conversed with him by trans-Atlantic telephone in his London suite, and was greatly thrilled by the experience.

LITTLE THEATRE PLANS ADVANCE
Tryouts for First Play to Be Held Here on Tuesday, September 7

The executive of the Victoria Little Theatre Association held its first meeting of the season recently at the clubrooms on Rockland Avenue, the president, H. J. Davis, in the chair. Plans were discussed for the coming year, and all present were enthusiastic about the future activities of the club.

Mrs. Duncan MacBride, chairman of the programme committee, is busy with plans for the first monthly meeting, which will be held on Tuesday, September 14. A very interesting programme is being prepared and a large gathering is expected. It was decided to fix the second Tuesday of each month as the regular date for meetings.

Plans for a financial drive to be held in October to raise funds in order that the club may purchase its own rooms, were discussed, and will be gone into thoroughly with the members at the next meeting.

FIRST PERFORMANCE
The play-reading committee has chosen as the first public performance, "Nothing but the Truth," by James Montgomery. Try-outs for this play will be held at the clubrooms on Tuesday, September 7, at 8 o'clock. Anyone interested in taking part is invited to attend.

Other plays are being chosen for public production and also for presentation at the monthly meetings. It is hoped that the Little Theatre will be able to produce two three-act plays for the 1937-1938 season, one in the late Autumn, and the second in the Spring.

With two three-act plays, and a minimum of ten one-act plays, there will be a great demand by the club for acting, directing and producing talent, and it was stated that everyone in the club would have a chance to be active in one of these fields. With many parts to be cast, it was hoped that this would be an increased membership, and there would be many parts open for young men, in particular.

REORGANIZE ORCHESTRA
A number of members were most anxious to reorganize an orchestra and make it a feature of the club this year. An effort will be made to work up a first-rate group, as the executive felt that this would be a distinct acquisition to the club.

Anyone interested in joining the Little Theatre or in finding out any particulars about it, was asked to telephone Miss Mae Murray, the secretary, at E-749.

Fighting centred around Wusung and a few miles to the northwest between Lotien and Lihao, slightly inland.

LOSE THE FORTS
Affidavits by passengers indicated that Harris came here in 1905 from Rochester, N.Y., leaped aboard Monday shortly before the President Hoover was bombed. Friends blamed financial reverses caused by the Sino-Japanese hostilities.

URGENT INTERVENTION
In Nanking, Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, Premier and Supreme Commander of the Central Chinese Government, urged intervention of foreign powers to halt the hostilities.

He said: "They should take immediate action" if they recognized

When Wusung Village fell, the Chinese were forced to evacuate the old—and largely ineffectual—forts. They fell back to the Lotien-Kiating line, and bolstered their defence against the Japanese attack there.

CONFLICTING CLAIMS
Japanese headquarters claimed an advance beyond Lotien, but the Chinese insisted the invaders were being driven back to the coast.

Large Japanese forces, landed at various points along the Whangpoo from Wusung to Changwahang, extended their offensive to new heights, determined to overcome the stubborn Chinese defence, which impressed foreign observers as having made amazing progress since the last fighting in Shanghai in 1932.

The Canadian Pacific Steamship Company decided to cancel the scheduled call here on September 5 of the liner Empress of Canada, due to the bombing Monday of the Dollar liner President Hoover by Chinese warplanes. Lionel Haskell, seaman, was killed and nine persons wounded in the bombing. The port was closed to United States shipping, except warships, by Admiral Harry Yarnell, commander-in-chief of the Asiatic fleet, and Consul-General Gauss, because of danger from bombs and shells.

An unidentified bomber attacked, but did not damage, the Italian-operated steamship Lung Shah near Wusung, north of Shanghai. The liner was thronged with Chinese refugees.

The bomb-stricken President Hoover himself was en route to Kobe, Japan.

On board the vessel, William Collins, clerk of the United States Court in China, investigated the death of Norman G. Harris, a director of the British-American Tobacco Company and a resident of Shanghai.

BARBARA STANWYCK

The people of Victoria may credit Herbert Marshall with the English motion picture, "The Love Like That," which was shown at the Old Country Theatre, where she was introduced to this city yesterday.

Blonde and charming, Miss Stanwyck, who has been featured in many talkies seen in this city, played glowing language that Miss Stanwyck greatly desired to visit the Old Country. When she found she could not do so, she did the next best thing, and came to Victoria. She was not disappointed, she declared.

This is the beginning of a month's holiday for her. She arrived here on the night boat from Vancouver, and drove directly to Butcher's Gardens. Returning she stopped at the Astrophysical Observatory, where she was met by the observatory's secretary, Miss Hilda Barnes.

The hanging baskets of flowers decorating the streets, the stores, the courtesies of the people, all fascinated the visitor. She had thought this city would be somewhat like the United States, and was pleased that it was not.

Though diffident about the linking of her name with that of Robert Taylor, she nevertheless admitted that she had recently conversed with him by trans-Atlantic telephone in his London suite, and was greatly thrilled by the experience.

MARIGOLD IN 8-6 VICTORY

Defeat Ladysmith in Island "B" Softball Play-Offs—Third Game Tomorrow

Moving out in front with a five-run attack in the fourth inning, and keeping on the right end of the score for the remainder of the game, Marigold softballers last night defeated Ladysmith, 8-6, in the second game of the Vancouver Island "B" play-off series staged at the Royal Athletic Park. The outcome left the nine dined at the same place, and forced a third and final game tomorrow evening at Ladysmith at 6:45 o'clock.

Costly miscues by the visitors paved the way for a Marigold victory in a pitching duel between Ian Campbell, on the slab for the suburbanites, and George Coupland, on the hill for the Ladysmith boys. The Up-Islanders made no less than seven boners and four of these came in the fourth frame, when Marigold snared five of their eight markers. Marigold, except for the second session, when Ladysmith pushed across four tallies, played good ball.

TEN BASE KNOCKS
The locals garnered ten base knocks from the fast ball hurling of Coupland and drove three of them for extra bases. Wack O'Connell, husky first sacker, crashed out a circuit drive in the eighth frame with the cushions empty. Ladysmith's Ian Campbell, Marigold pitcher, for nine safeties, all singles.

DISPLAY MODELS OF ANCIENT MAN
Vancouver Sculptor Makes Five Life-Size Forms for Royal Canadian Order

Five classical-size life-sized models depicting man's physical progress through the ages are on exhibit in Vancouver City Museum. The forms were modeled by Carl Robinson, artist of the City Museum staff, after considerable research to discern the types which would more nearly represent those agreed on by anthropological authorities of the world. T. P. Menzies, curator of the museum, had them made upon order of the Rockefeller Egyptian and Oriental Museum in San Jose, California, where they will later be on permanent display.

The first model, for contrast, depicts the chimpanzee, a West African arboreal anthropoid ape, physical characteristics of the chimpanzee and those of the earliest types of prehistoric human beings, such as the Peking and Java Man (Pithecanthropus erectus) are startlingly similar. The Peking man is estimated to have roamed the earth approximately one million years ago, and has marked Mongoloid features. The model of the Neanderthal man, who dwelt in central and tropical Europe some 200,000 years ago, is distinguished by a more upright posture, more closely than all previous types, the modern genus homo. He has greater frontal development, and his lower jaw protrudes less. He stands more erect and has less of the "hump" of the ape upon his shoulders.

CHALK CAVES OF FRANCE
"There are," says Mr. Robinson, "characteristics which mark this type as man, for he was a creator—an artist. We have today, in the chalk caves on the coast of France, remnants of his crude, though nevertheless remarkable, paintings depicting scenes of the hunt. He was visionary, imaginative—virtues distinctly human."

To represent these qualities, Mr. Robinson has softened the facial lines and given the Neanderthal man a dreamy, meditative expression.

R. M. Lewis, secretary of the Rockefeller Order which will receive these exhibits, informed officers of the lodges of the philosophic society in Vancouver and Victoria that the City Museum of Vancouver was selected to prepare these types as no other institution on the Pacific Coast would assume the undertaking. Mr. Menzies states that the models will remain on exhibit in the Vancouver Museum, admission free to the public, for one week, August 30 to September 7.

BUILDING IS ON INCREASE

Suburban Residences Show Advance of More Than a Third Over Last Year

Building permits for the surrounding municipalities are maintaining their lead over the previous year at a uniform rate. In Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt, the building permits jumped this year from a value of $459,330 for the first eight months of 1936, to $625,971 for the same period of 1937. This is considerably over a third higher for the present year.

In the month of August just closed, the value of permits for Oak Bay was $36,310, as compared with $21,473 for the same month in 1936.

SAANICH BUILDING
In the municipality of Saanich, the permits for August this year were $40,800 in value, $33,395 being for August, 1936, there has been a large increase this year over last. The total permits for August, 1936, represented a value of $25,685. Of these, $22,500 were for new houses.

In Esquimalt, the building permits issued in August were $120,000 in value as compared with $5,825 in the same month last year. In that municipality, however, there is a considerable expenditure in the matter of public works in the various departments of the Dominion Government, which are carried out there, but which are not included in the municipal building department.

vinage, are on the whole reasonably temperate; and who, whether in matters of drinking of social purity, or in other personally dangerous contacts of their daily life, show good self-restraint, and much higher ambitions than the mere satisfaction of physical appetite for luxuries from ethically forbidden trees.

I am not out to deny the evils that always follow on excessive drinking. As ever, "Wine is a mocker; strong drink is raging." Nor do I, praise our liquor sales laws; they are just better than nothing. Archdeacon Scott has never posed as a prohibitionist, or even a total abstainer. He believes in a temperate use of God's gifts to men—including a glass of good beer or "Wine that makes glad man's heart"; and in thanking God for his goodness in the use of that good wine in his Holy Communion. "Furnished with my wine and everlasting bread" (John Wesley), Paul, our great philosophic interpreter of Truth—and of Truth's daughter, Liberty—(Gal. v. 16), puts drunkenness in the pillory with the cardinal sins, and classes in his following list of virtues, not abstinence, but temperance: the moderate and proper use of food and drink, "against which there is no law."

"But to every man there openeth A High Way—and a Low; And every man decideth 'The Way his soul shall go.'"

"Hae dicke ego maxime (and etiam humiliter) audio" (and therefore a copy of this goes to the Venerable Archdeacon, who will doubtless correct any overstatement of his views. F. W. L. MOORE, 3249 Quadra Street, Victoria, B.C., August 30, 1937.

Jane Dixon Says:

WELL WISHER MAY BE HANDICAPPED PHYSICALLY BUT CERTAINLY NOT MENTALLY—HAS JUST COMPLETED TWENTY-FIVE YEARS OF HAPPILY WEDDED LIFE

Thanks a million to Well Wisher who in today's column, gives us such a frank and inspirational picture of her own happy experience. She deserves all the happiness she has and all that will come to her for her bravery and the kindness of heart that begets so sympathetic calls for others.

Dear Miss Dixon:
I have just read a letter in your column signed "Sincere" and am moved to answer it.

Believe me, I am sincere in advising the "Sincere" girl to marry her sweetheart who has suffered a physical handicap and to love him all the more for his misfortune.

I am a congenital cripple, born with only three limbs.

All my young life I realized I was different than other children. At times this realization made me very unhappy. I felt I was being deprived of life's most thrilling experiences and that it would always be so. The depressing part was that there was nothing I could do about it.

When I was only sixteen I met and fell in love with a man who later became my husband. He is five years older than I. We were sweethearts for three years.

During most of this time he was asking me to marry him. I was sure we loved one another. At times I felt it wasn't fair to him to accept, yet I wanted my own happiness so much that I couldn't refuse.

We married and have lived happily ever since.

We are still sweethearts and very much in love. In fact, our love seems to have grown with the years. We celebrated our twenty-fifth wedding anniversary last October.

My husband is very proud of my ability to do everything persons without my handicap can do. He boasts about my cleverness in this respect and likes to call the attention of his friends to it. He praises my cooking and my housekeeping and insists I could compete with anyone in these respects.

So in my happiness I wish to assure "Sincere" that she is safe in loving and marrying the man she loves in spite of his handicap. My own defect has deepened my husband's devotion to me, as I am sure it will her devotion to her sweetheart when she marries him.

If possible, I should like to hear at some future time how "Sincere" worked out her problem. With best wishes for her happiness I am, very sincerely—"Well Wisher."

Like Well Wisher, I am hoping for your great happiness.

If a woman and September 1 is your birthday, you are probably a fluent talker, with a well-defined sense of humor. You are likely to be very methodical, easily annoyed by anyone that is untidy or careless regarding personal habits. Your versatility will make it possible for you to take an interest in many things in a very progressive manner. Your social life is apt to be filled with triumphs, and your popularity may make you a recognized leader in your set. There is a chance of your earning, unthinkingly, or through gift, receiving a large sum of money. A highly specialized line of work, such as trained nursing teaching, designing, interior decorating, writing, acting, lecturing or singing might enable you to win public recognition. There is little chance of your making a mistake marrying.

also hurled a counter-attack at Government positions on the Aragon front in a campaign to relieve pressure on the city of Zaragoza.

South of this northeast Spanish insurgent stronghold, which the Government has been trying desperately to take, the insurgents reported almost encircling a column of Government militiamen.

Several Government relief forces were sent to the aid of this endangered column, but all were repulsed in heavy fighting between Belchite and Fuentes de Ebro.

REPORTS HEAVY LOSS

An insurgent radio broadcast asserted the Government suffered 13,500 dead since the start of the Aragon offensive a few days ago.

The broadcaster also announced insurgents took 1,300 prisoners, destroyed six tanks and downed thirty-five planes during the present offensive.

In Far Southern Spain there was a new Government offensive west of Almeria, and Government forces in surprise attacks captured several strategic mountain positions in the Sierra Nevada Range. Ever since the fall of Malaga, insurgents have held and dominated the mountains, which overlook Granada.

A Government trawler engaged an unidentified submarine off the Catalan Coast. The trawler successfully defended three merchant ships which she was convoying.

Interrupted Romance by Julie Anne Moore

CHAPTER XXIII.

"A blue silk dress?" Sheila repeated, puzzled. "Why, yes, I have two in fact. Evelyn has several, and I dare say Miss Markey has one or two. Thinking about opening a ladies' ready-to-wear, Jerry?"

Jerry ignored the rippant question. "In other words," he said, "blue silk frocks are fairly common."

"Very. Particularly with blue-eyed women. One of our little illusions is that blue eyes and a blue frock combine to do strange things to men's hearts. If you are any more susceptible than you have been in the past, I'd be glad to dash up and wiggle into one of my blue silks at once."

"Will you, like a good girl?" Jerry said quite seriously, ignoring her bantering tone. "I'd appreciate it tremendously." And then as she looked at him in silence, "I rammed my head into a door and I'd like to run up to the hospital and let them apply a little sticking-plaster. I'll be back in thirty minutes. If you could put on the dress in the meantime."

"You're not joking?" Sheila said. "No, I'll explain when I come back. By the way, where were you and Tod headed?"

"Tod wanted some chewing gum," Sheila replied. "We were starting to the store."

"Then why not let Tod go along with me? We'll stop at the store on the way." He leaned over. "How about it, soldier?"

Tod grinned. "May I, Sheila?" Sheila replied. "We were starting to the store and he held the door while Tod climbed in."

At the roadside left, Sheila looked at Polly. "What's the idea, Miss Markey?"

Polly shrugged. She didn't say anything. When they entered the living-room, she looked down at Sheila's hands. They were white, slim, hands and she doubted they were as strong as the hands she had felt at her throat a short time before. Still, . . .

Tod sat in the anteroom while the doctor dressed Jerry's wound. But the door between the two rooms remained open and he was deeply puzzled by the conversation he overheard:

Doctor: "You ran into a door, you say? I'd say you were hit with a blackjack."

Jerry: "You think he meant business, Bert?"

Doctor: "He tried to kill you, if that's what you mean. I hope you're not imagining yourself a detective again."

Jerry: "Imagine! That's gratitude for you. I landed that crazy moon behind the bars before he murdered everybody in the 'gost, didn't I?"

Doctor: "Right. But you came within an inch of getting your throat cut in the process. Leave the detective business to the professionals, Jerry. You're too good an officer to be taking risks with things."

Jerry: "I was a detective at heart before I was an officer. Being a detective is something in your blood, Bert. Once it gets in, there's nothing you can do about it."

Doctor: "And what are you putting your nose into now, Jerry?"

There was prolonged "Shhhhh!" a few moments later Jerry returned and took Tod out of the car. Tod was terribly curious about what he had heard, but he said nothing. They stopped at a store and Jerry came out with a paper bag that contained much more than chewing gum. He saw when they were riding again, "Did you talk with your father's lawyer, soldier?"

Tod nodded. "He asked me a lot of questions about father," he said. "And he wanted to know if I was happy and if everybody was good to me."

"I suppose he took you off in a corner for a cozy little chat?"

"Oh, no," Tod said. "We sat in the living-room. Sheila was there."

"Not very private, then, was it? Sheila was there all the time?"

"Yes." He looked up at Jerry and he wanted to ask, "Are you really a detective and is that why you're asking me all these questions?" But he said, "Sheila was with me all the time after we left the boat until you and Polly came in the yard. Sheila's nice. I like her lots." There was a defensive note in his little voice.

"Oh, so do I," Jerry said quickly. "We all like her, Tod. I just thought—perhaps the lawyer would want you all to himself. You know how busy lawyers are."

Tod said, "Yes, I guess so." But he was still thinking about what he had overheard a short time before, however. Jerry was a detective and he hadn't hit his head on a door at all. "He tried to kill you."

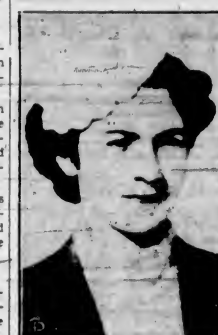

Sheila and Polly were waiting in the living-room when they entered the house. Sheila was wearing a dark-blue silk frock of simple design.

"Mammon!" Jerry said, dropping into a chair. "Why don't you ever wear it?" The frock was a snug fit and it called attention to every gentle contour of her slim figure. He was entirely honest in his admiration. Sheila had always thought Sheila lovely, but the blue of the frock was the same color of her eyes and the combination gave her a touch of positive beauty to which he had been insensitive until now.

"If you had eyes for anything, besides military perfection, you would remember seeing this frock often—I wore it for your special benefit on several separate occasions," Sheila said.

Doctor: "Right. But you came

"Mumms" asked the little girl, "when I die and go to heaven, can I take my best doll with me?"
"No, dear," replied her mother.
"Well, can I take my second best?"
"No, darling. God doesn't have dolls in heaven."
"Very well, I'll take my gollywog and go to hell!"

ARRANGE TO PLANT TREE

Oak Seedling From Royal Forest Will Find Place in Esquimalt Park.

Esquimalt Council made arrangements at a meeting Monday night for the planting in Memorial Park of a seedling from a giant oak tree in the Royal Forest. The seedling is at present in the care of the British Columbia Women's Institute, who obtained it from England in connection with the Coronation ceremonies. A fitting ceremony will be arranged for the planting, with Reeve Alexander Lockie and councillors taking part.

The reeve was named the official representative of the municipality to attend the annual convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, to be held at Nanaimo on September 7, 8 and 9.

No action was taken on a letter from the Good Roads League, suggesting that the council become affiliated. The communication was ordered received and filed awaiting further progress of the league.

SALE IS APPROVED
The sale of a one-acre section of the old Pooley estate, on the corner of Esquimalt Road and Lamson Street, to G. Longstaff was approved by the council.

Councillor David A. Henry reported for the lighting committee, advising the council of a new pole and light at the end of Armit Road, at an approximate cost of $70. The appropriation of funds for this purpose was endorsed by the council.

Councillor Henry also reported that the light on the memorial flagpole in the municipal park was again out, and instructions were given for the investigation and permanent solution of this difficulty. The council decided that, although not originally for lighting purposes, the flagpole light should be kept up.

PROPOSES RAISE IN WATER RATES

Nanaimo City Council Is Considering Increase of Fifty Cents a Month on Service

NANAIMO, Aug. 31.—Water rates may be raised fifty cents per month in the near future, if a recommendation of Alderman Inkster, chairman of the finance committee, which was endorsed by the City Council last night, is put into force.

"It points out that Nanaimo water-works system over a period of nineteen years shows a net loss of $109,821. For nine years preceding 1917 the annual loss ranged from $1,343 to $12,994 a month. In 1922 when a pump was purchased, and due to forest fire damage, the loss was $48,883.

PROFIT AND LOSS
The following eight years showed a profit of $20,413 and the following four years losses of $20,146. The proposed fifty cents increase over a five-year period will raise $90,000 for the renewal of the pipeline which, Ald. Inkster said, had outlived its life and was in danger of blowing any day.

All the aldermen spoke in favor of the scheme, with Alderman Kerr urging that a plebiscite be taken.

Frank Pritchard Carries Off Top Prize at Toronto

Buffalo Merman Swims to Victory in Canadian National Exhibition's Marathon in Choppy Waters of Lake Ontario—Wins $2,500—Bill Nolan, Chelsea, Mass., Is Second

TORONTO, Aug. 31.—Master of Lake Ontario's choppy, lukewarm water, Frank Pritchard, tall, muscular Buffalo swimmer, splashed to victory here today in the Canadian National Exhibition's ten-mile swimming marathon. The victory was the second in a row for the husky swimmer, winner of the five-mile grand last year.

The twenty-five-year-old lifeguard swept into the lead at the half-way mark and from then on victory was never in doubt. Beating sixty strokes to the minute, he gradually drew out from the top and at the end held a 350-yard margin over Bill Nolan, tanned Chelsea, Mass. marathon specialist.

Pritchard finished the grind in 4:19:28, compared with 4:25:45 by Nolan. The winner received $2,500 prize money and Nolan $150.

Gianni Gambi, Ravenna, Italy, familiar figure in marathon swims here since the inauguration in 1927, placed third. The 1935 victor was timed at 4:38:16.

VICTORIAN IS DEFEATED IN GOLF TOURNEY

Mrs. Charles Wilson Eliminated From Women's Canadian Open

ST. CHARLES COUNTRY CLUB, WINNIPEG, Aug. 31.—Mrs. Charles Wilson, twenty-year-old Montreal girl, became favorite today to reach the final of the Canadian women's open golf tournament.

Miss Hankin, whose qualifying 82 Monday was second only to the 69-par 78 returned by Beatrice Barrett, of Minneapolis, surpassed even that fine golf today as she swept past Mrs. Theo Klipp, Winnipeg, in the first round of match play.

In the other half of the draw, Mrs. Barrett, outstanding contender for the title vacated by Mrs. A. B. Darling, of Montreal, advanced easily by whipping Mrs. Charles Wilson, Victoria, also by an 8 and 7.

The United States challenger was not pressed by Mrs. Wilson, but her 47 for the eleven holes was only a yard tenth put her eleven-hole match at 47.

Toronto sent two women into the second eighteen-hole round tomorrow, Mrs. Eric Phillips and Willo Love, while other eastern survivors are Evelyn Mills, Ottawa; Mrs. C. H. Shuttleworth, Hamilton, Ont.; and Mrs. H. W. Soper, Montreal.

One-Two in Marathon

Who finished first and second, respectively, in the Canadian National Exhibition's annual marathon swim, held yesterday in the choppy waters of Lake Ontario. Pritchard, the winner, finished the grind in 4:19:28, compared with 4:25:45 by Nolan, who trailed the first swimmer by 350 yards. Gianni Gambi, Italy, placed third. Ben Gartzel, Toronto amateur swimmer, making his professional debut, was close behind the big Italian.

Schmeling Rejects Proposal to Fight Farr; Wants Louis

German Heavyweight and Former Champion Reiterates His Belief That He Has Already Qualified for a Shot at the Title

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—In the wake of the failure of Joe Louis to do anything more damaging than outpoint Great Britain's Tommy Farr in the negro's first defence of the world heavyweight boxing crown, it appeared today Promoter Mike Jacobs will have to call a traffic cop to handle the newly-inspired rush of title challengers.

Jacobs, number one boss of the fac-ile industry, considered the series of by proclaiming an "open elimination tournament" with all comers invited to try qualifying for a title shot, but there was evidence the one-time fear of the chocolate "killer" has been dissipated once more by Joe's inability to put Farr on the ropes.

Stimulating effects of the British line showing left only one man cold. It was Max Schmeling, who regarded the champion's showing last night with disdain, repeated his desire to prove he can knock out Louis again, and forthwith asserted he wants no part of any elimination contest.

Schmeling, only fighter to flatter Louis, rejected a proposal he fight anyone else this winter as a stepping stone to a title match. The German reiterated his belief he has already qualified for a shot at the championship he held from 1930 to 1932.

"If Louis doesn't sign to meet me next year," concluded Schmeling, "I'm on my own, but that's my fight to fight me."

Most critics agree a return Schmeling-Louis match next June will be a sure-fire $1,000,000 affair, but Promoter Jacobs isn't so sure it would draw any better than a return bout between the negro champion and the young Welshman who showed up under Joe's heaviest guns for fifteen rounds with a brilliant display of durability.

BAY OARSMEN MAY COMPETE IN AUSTRALIA

J.B.A.A. Senior-Four Expected to Represent Canada at Empire Games

Following an important meeting with Vancouver Rowing Club officials, Hugh Francis, club captain of the J.B.A.A., announced yesterday that it was practically assured the senior four rowing crew of the local association would represent Canada at the British Empire Games in Australia next year.

Vancouver was originally named by the Canadian Amateur Association of Oarsmen, at Hamilton, to send a crew, but Francis stated the Mainlanders had graciously decided to step down in favor of the Victoria sweepers, who now hold the North Pacific and Pacific Coast championships. The J.B.A.A. boys have held the North Pacific title for the past three years.

A veteran crew, developed by Coach Dan Moses, the senior four comprises: Stroke, Jack MacDonald; three, Don Davis; two, Max Winkler and bow, Jim Temple. If the boys make the trip they will set the precedent of being the first British Empire Games.

TO START TRAINING Some of the finest oarsmen in the British Empire will be in Australia for the races so the local crew will have to be in tip-top shape if they want to carry the Maple Leaf through on top. They will start training almost immediately in preparation for the trip, official confirmation of which is yet forthcoming from the C.A.O.

Present plans call for the boys to leave here on December 31, returning in March, some three months later. A spare, not yet chosen, will make the fifth member of the crew. Rowed over the regular Henley course, the race is a distance of one mile and 550 yards.

Greensome Competition

Starting after 5 o'clock a nine-hole mixed greensome will be played Thursday at the Victoria Golf Club. Players will choose their partners.

A spare, not yet chosen, will make the fifth member of the crew. Rowed over the regular Henley course, the race is a distance of one mile and 550 yards.

REGISTER WIN OVER DODGERS AS GIANTS LOSE TO CARDINALS

Chicago Checks in With 4-2 Victory Over Brooklyn—Terryman Suffer 8-1 Shellacking at Hands of St. Louis Cards—York Hits Two Homers As Tigers Whip Senators

NATIONAL LEUGE BROOKLYN, N.Y., Aug. 31.—Alger having surrendered the National League lead to the Giants for twenty-four hours, the Chicago Cubs moved out in front again today with a 4-2 victory over the Dodgers while the Giants were being shellacked by the Cardinals.

From a position two points behind the Terryman, the Cubs jumped a full game in front. They have won two more games than the 1936 champions and have a percentage of .608 to the Giants' .602.

Tex Carleton, in winning his twelfth game as against five defeats, furnished the Chicagoans with effective pitching. He set the Dodgers down with eight hits, two of which combined with a walk and a sacrifice in the third for both their runs.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The Giants' shaky grip on first place in the National League was loosened today as they dropped the first game of a series to the St. Louis Cardinals, 8-1, at the same time that the Chicago Cubs were turning back Brooklyn.

That combination of events put the Terryman a game behind Chicago and six points behind in the percentages.

The Cardinals, hammering three New York pitchers for sixteen hits, that included home runs by Don Padgett, Joe Medwick and Johnny Mize, did most of the damage to slick Castleman.

Batteries: Welland and Owen; Castleman, Brennan, Baker and Danning.

TOURING SIDE HELD TO DRAW BY OTTAWA XI

Canadians Put On 199 for Six—M.C.C. Scores 141 For Third Wickets

By H. H. GORDON Canadian Press Staff Writer OTTAWA, Aug. 31.—Held by a keen Ottawa Valley team at Rideau Hall today, the Marylebone Cricket Club eleven played the sixth draw of its Canadian tour. Winning the toss, the Canadians declared after making 199 for six wickets, their opponents replying with 141 for three.

Batsmen found run-getting easy on a wicket of the brilliant table variety, but it was nearly a clock when D. R. Snipper, young Ottawa captain, brought his team's innings to a close. The visitors made a vigorous attack on the opposing bowlers, but found two hours too short a time to compile the double-century.

A brilliant four-wicket stand by J. C. Seager and G. Dicker provided the high spot of the Ottawa innings. Seager, more forceful of the two, compiled 70 runs, while his partner made 60 before being clean bowled by Brocklebank. The partnership added 95 runs.

The Englishmen return to Montreal tomorrow for the closing games of the tour. In the first contest they will be opposed by fifteen juniors from the Quebec city, and on Thursday will meet a representative Montreal eleven.

British Speed Driver Hopes to Break Record

Captain George Eyston Will Attempt to Better Mark Established by Sir Malcolm Campbell—Car Weighs Nearly Seven Tons

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Captain George Eyston, forty, British speed driver, arrived today, to be followed within a month by the biggest, craziest and, he hopes, fastest automobile ever conceived by man.

In it, he confidently expects to smash the world record of 361.1292 miles an hour set by Sir Malcolm Campbell two years ago on the salt beds at Bonneville, Utah.

His new monster, he said, weighs nearly seven tons, or two tons more than Campbell's Bluebird. It is powered by two Rolls-Royce engines developing 2,500 horsepower compared to the 2,400 horsepower generated by Bluebird's single motor.

The great power plants are tucked on behind, with Eyston sitting out in front, completely surrounded by machinery, as he put it. All he will have to occupy his mind once he slides behind the wheel is to

HOW IT CAME TO BE CALLED "MARYLAND"

Whimsy is probably as responsible as anything else for how the states happen to be so-called, but for it Maryland, for example, might have been known as Crescentia, the name preferred by its founder, George Calvert, the first Lord Baltimore.

Charles I, however, who had the final say, hesitated before filling in the name of the grant in its charter. "Let us," he said, "give it a name in honor of the Queen" (Henrietta Maria, daughter of Henry IV, King of France and Savoy, and sister of Louis XIII, who was called Queen Mary by writers of the day), "what think you of Marianna?" he inquired. Calvert reminded His Majesty that a Jesuit who had propagated against the Crown bore that very name. "Whereupon," writes a historian, "the King proposed Terra Mariae, in England Land of Maria or Maryland, which was concluded on and inserted in the bill."

Lack of Roads on Northern Half of Island Deplorable

Young Woman Who Spent Her Childhood on Bush Pre-Emption Returns for Visit and Finds Succession of Deserted Homes

A young woman dropped into the Colonist editorial rooms the other afternoon. She stated her name was Violet Olsen, and that she had driven her motor on all the way from New York to Vancouver Island for the purpose of visiting her father at the home of her own childhood days in the San Josef Valley. She could get no nearer to it by road than Menzies Bay, fully a hundred miles away from San Josef even as the crow flies.

She deplored the lack of road communications on the upper part of the island, which prevented people from seeing what that area has to offer in the way of scenic attractions and settlement. A trunk road, such as has been advocated by the other local and transient travelers in the area, she said, would mean a period of development for Vancouver Island, Miss Olsen believed. It's cost, she stated, would soon be more than justified by the tourist traffic it would attract.

Miss Olsen got to her father's home, not by motor car, but by traveling by boat to Hardy Bay, crossed the ten-mile thoroughfare which is the only semblance of a road on the north end of Vancouver Island, to the West Arm of Quatsino Sound. From Coal Harbor, she took a launch to Quatsino Settlement, and from there went by fishing boat to San Josef Bay, walking about half a mile from the beach over an indifferent trail along the bank of the San Josef River before she reached the place she still prefers to call home, where she would like to spend a portion of each year, and hopes to reside at some time in the future.

ATTITUDE PUZZLING

Enthusiastic over the possibilities which Vancouver Island presents for the settler, the visitor and the tourist, Miss Olsen, nevertheless, cannot understand the attitude of successive governments, which have apparently overlooked one of Canada's most wonderful assets. She recalled the inducements offered many years ago to get settlers on the land in the area north of Quatsino Sound, and how, after many families had entered on the land, they were left without ways and means of getting the products of their toil to any sort of market.

It was in 1904, as a child of nine years old, that Miss Olsen landed with her father and mother at San Josef Bay from the Ss. Trees. They went through all the experiences of pioneers making their new home, and gradually won a respectable-sized clearing from the brush. Other settlers followed them, but the dimmed when promises faded; and though there were about 100 settlers occupying pre-emption between Holberg and San Josef by the time Miss Olsen reached the age of twelve, her mother had to take her in order to give her daughter an opportunity to acquire necessary schooling.

At the time she left the northern valley, about eight miles of so-called roadway had been constructed from the West Arm of Quatsino Sound toward the San Josef. Today her father is the sole survivor of the original settlers on the San Josef. Abandoned homes constitute mute testimony to the heart-breaking which must have been experienced before the settlers sought more remunerative surroundings.

SOIL IS PROLIFIC

As it is along the San Josef, so it is with the settlement in the vicinity of Coal Harbor, which was inaugurated with much enthusiasm in 1896. Of all the settlers who went into that area, Cache Creek and Nahmih, there is left only one family at Cape Scott, the Fredericks, and the Shuttlesworths at Cache Creek. The ground in many places throughout the northern part of the island will produce anything which a temperate soil can grow; but with no chance of getting it where it can be sold, efforts to produce anything would be wasted.

Roads opening up the country, and with modern transport vehicles, speeding over them, would bring every part of Vancouver Island within reach of markets. According to Miss Olsen, a petition from the northern section of the island praying for consideration in the matter of highway facilities will soon be in the hands of the Provincial Government.

After spending a month on the island, the greater part of the time being devoted to the northern part, Miss Olsen is returning to New York, where she conducts a promotional travel service, featuring the outfitting of exploration parties to Central and South American countries. She has traveled extensively, she said, but has found no place with the charm of Vancouver Island.

Another Waterfront Dispute Brewing in San Francisco Between Factions of Major Unions

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31 (AP).—A complete tieup of the waterfront here was threatened today as the result of a dispute between the American Federation of Labor and Committee of Industrial Organizations factions.

John P. McLaughlin, president of the Teamsters' Union, an A.F. of L. affiliate, declared the union would stop handling goods tomorrow or the next day unless forcible opposition of the warehousemen to teamsters' deliveries of California Packing Corporation's produce ceased.

Louis Goldblatt, vice-president of the warehousemen, a C.I.O. affiliate, said there was no dispute with the teamsters, but charged seventy-five men were locked out by the packing corporation nine months ago.

McLaughlin's ultimatum came after a crowd of men topped trucks carrying so-called "hot goods."

ONE MAN REPORTED KILLED WHEN SHIP WAS CUT IN HALF

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Marine Exchange here received word today the Mexican steamer Cedros was cut in half in a collision with the freighter Hidalgo, off the coast of Lower California.

One man was reported killed, the exchange said.

The Hidalgo, operated by the Keene Line, was en route south from Los Angeles Harbor, the exchange said.

Mariners are advised that the front light of the Woodwards Range, opposite Stevenson, Fraser River, which was carried away some time ago, will be replaced without further notice.

Brought Crisis Into Open

RT. REV. A. W. F. BLUNT, BISHOP OF BRADFORD

"I took the risk because the danger was so great," said the Bishop of Bradford, who arrived in Victoria last week, aboard the Ss. Duchess of Richmond. It was Bishop Blunt's address that brought the British constitutional crisis into the open, when he criticized Great Britain's indifference to religious observance. The Bishop is attending the General Synod of the Church of England at Halifax. He will also lecture under the auspices of the Canadian Church Union, and will visit the United States before returning to England.

MAY BETTER OLD SAILING RECORD
New Brunswick Skipper Hopes to Make Speedy Passage With Barkentine

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—Captain R. S. MacLean, Chatham, N.B., who made marine history in 1901 when he set a record for logboat schooners by sailing the Baden-Powell from St. John's, Nfld., to Gibraltar in nine days, hopes to better that record with the rejuvenated barkentine Reine Marie Stewart. He purchased the vessel from her New England owner in rising demand and ocean freight rates advancing, old sailing vessels again are coming into their own. The four-masted Reine Marie Stewart was built at Thomaston, Me. in 1910 and for the last eight or nine years was tied up at that port. Now, she is being fitted out for active service under the Union Jack.

NOTICE TO MARINERS
Mariners are advised that the black spar buoy west of Blaney Park, Vancouver Harbor, is reported missing from its position.
